FROM:

SUBJECT:

Statement of Goals for CIA and

STAT

1. What follows represents the views of

and myself concerning the redefinition of a statement of goals for the Agency. Because of our rather narrow Agency experience it is difficult for us to gauge the impact of our specific Division oriented goals and objectives upon the more general Agency draft. We will therefore limit our direct contribution to the Agency's statement of goals to an additional sentence or two on Ethics, and provide a stand-alone set of goals, principles, and standards for

Division It may be that others can identify points contained in the statement which are worthy of inclusion in the Agency document.

2. It was agreed that the Ethics portion of the Agency's statement might benefit from the addition of the following:

How we are perceived by the policy makers we serve, as well as by the public, is dependent largely upon the quality of our conduct and our resultant image. The value and acceptance of the Agency's product will be enhanced through the demonstration of our highest personal standards and ethical behavior.

3. For convenience and consistency the statement of goals will follow the same outline as the Agency's draft.
